

COURT TIRED OF BALLYRAGGING GOLD FIELDS IN TWO HOURS RUN

Court Abruptly Closed and Prisoner Discharged as Attorneys Wrangled

END OF THE ARSON CASE

Aged Man, Charged With Burning Son in Law's Barn Near Orange, Was Dismissed

The trial of William Curme, the aged man who was charged with burning his son-in-law's barn, near Orange, last week, had not progressed far in Squire Enos's court in Connersville late Wednesday evening, when the defendant was abruptly discharged by the court, says the Connersville Examiner.

But one witness was examined, Alva Hamilton, the alleged owner of the barn. After Prosecutor Wiles had examined the witness he was turned over to Mr. Nevin, attorney for the defendant. Attorney Johnson, who was helping prosecute, objected to many of Nevin's questions and presently the trial had turned into a lively debate between attorneys.

The court seemed to grow weary of the rag chewing and suddenly closing his docket with some force, announced that the defendant was discharged, and left the room with the wondering attorneys and startled witnesses staring at each other.

The proceeding was an unusual one, but seems to have satisfied those who are acquainted with the case, especially the circumstances that led up to the prosecution.

After the trial before Justice Enos, Curme appeared before Squire Cates and made an affidavit, swearing his life against Hamilton. The latter was brought into court and the trial was set for Saturday morning. In the meantime he is under a $250 bond to keep the peace.

A Day in Brown County and a Glimpse at the Hills and People

DIAMONDS FOUND THERE

And Every Phase of Human Nature in the Big Book of Character Study

BY TOM J. GERAGHTY
NASHVILLE, BROWN COUNTY, INDIANA.—It does not hardly seem possible that the gold fields of Indiana are located within a two hours' ride of Rushville, but nevertheless, such is the case. Gold fields! Bah! you are saying. What manner of talk is this? Gold fields in Indiana! Oh yes, I have heard something about them; but do they really get gold in paying quantities? Do they? Just you come down here in Brown and Monroe counties, and try to buy stock in some of the companies now washing the precious yellow metal. There is no stock for sale. This fact alone gives evidence to the claim that in the bowels of these great hills—young mountains, one would say after climbing them—are many and much hidden treasures.

THE GOLD FIELDS.
In Monroe county, are located several placer mining outfits, where a number of men are busily employed taking out the beautiful golden specks and nuggets, before your very eyes. Most of these men are experienced miners from the West.

And that is not all.
In these hills—many of them unexplored—up and down Sugar and Salt creeks, the natives are finding ever and anon (generally after a heavy rain) diamonds, rubies, emeralds, in fact every gem known in the geology world.

DIAMONDS AND RUBIES.
Ah, now, you say that is going a bit too far. Well, I don't blame you. I would say the same thing had I not seen not only one but hundreds of these precious gems that the denizens pick up and carry about in small tin boxes. And then the State Geologist and the Canadian geologists who recently made a thorough investigation of the fields, and report—officially—that the hills are filled with all sorts of precious gems and metals, then you can only say, "Well, what do you think of that? I never would have believed it."

FOUND $500 DIAMOND.
Only recently a blacksmith at Jaw Bone—rather odd name, isn't it?—found a ruby valued at $300. In Roth's jewelry store at Columbus now is a $500 diamond found by a Brown countyite this summer.

When one pays a visit to the Switzerland of Indiana, and has his eyes opened, he is ready to believe most anything in the future.

HOME OF ABE MARTIN.

And what a garden of Eden is old Brown county! We laugh at it, and with a feeling of superiority laugh at the nature beast of "Abe Martin," but man born and raised in Indiana has not seen nature with her "blandest smile" until he has taken a look at the garden of the gods.

Some day there is going to be an awakening as to the possibilities of Brown county and the people are going to "come to." If airships were now in use, all the rich men in Indiana would have a home on one of the beautiful knobs, where the eye can see "as far as you like."

RILEY'S HOME ON BEAR WALL-LOW.

On top of Bear Wallow hill, possibly the highest point in Indiana, the great Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley, has erected a modest country home, where he will spend several months each year. We reached this place after a horseback ride of three and one-half miles from Nashville, the county seat. And what a ride it was!

Up winding hills nearly the whole of the way. As I rode along, I kept thinking of one of the Rogers Brothers jokes—for it was impressed upon me in a most violent manner—they say "Horseback riding is good exercise—for the horse." But the view from Bear Wallow is worth the effort even though you be an amateur equestrienne. One can see in any direction for over fifteen miles. Anyone could write poetry in such an environment.

NASHVILLE CHARACTERS.

What a quaint little town! What a quaint little town!

everyone's character study. "An interesting volume could be written on the people of this place, for it is fairly alive with distinct Dickens characters and teeming with human creations, brought to our notice in the last few years by George Ade and Booth Tarkington. From the monument builder who runs a photograph gallery in connection with his marble works, where one may have a picture taken seated on an "AT REST" or "GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN," to the postmaster who makes a specialty of fashioning hickory crutches. When asked "what else he did for a livelihood the photographer-stone artist replied that he "done a little tinkering—fixed watches, sewing machines and the like, sort of a Jack of all trades, and did work some by the day when things were dull." After meditating a second or two the fellow added that he also played the slide trombone in the band.

MINE HOST, "BILL" PITTMAN.

Our genial host, one William Pittman, was well worth the price of admission, at any cost. He was at once proprietor of the Nashville sanatorium, county clerk and carried water (receiving one dollar a day for same) for a surveying gang that is galloping the hills over a proposed traction line. Bertha M. Clay would say of William, "County Clerk in Name Only." But he is a good old soul, and there is nothing too good for the guest at the sanatorium. Fresh meal is a luxury at the little inn, and they apologize because they have to serve chicken and other common things so often. One of the features of the hotel is the mineral water and baths. They have a well in the rear of the place that a chemical analysis shows to be stronger than the far famed Martinville waters, and containing the same medicinal properties. And Mr. Pittman only charges four dollars weekly for board and baths. It makes one feel like they want to be weakly; rheumatism would be a luxury at this price.

BROWN COUNTY LOG JAIL.

The Brown county jail is located in the rear of the old court house, where kind faced old cows could come up in the adjacent fields and smile on the prisoners—if there was any. The structure is a log affair and your first impulse is to laugh at such a prison. But hold! Smile not. A Main wood chopper could not make his way out of the bastille in two months with a sharp ax and a whet stone. The building is constructed of three layers of logs, the inside layer standing upright, while the outside and inside layers are crosswise. In event one would chop through to the second layer, it would fall down and close up the opening as fast as it was made. But they say down here that the jail is in keeping with their wants as seldom anyone is incarcerated. As a worthy contrast to the jail is the beautiful new school building under course of construction, which will be the most pretentious building in all the county. Indiana may have some ludicrous institutions, but nowhere in all the State does our educational advantages lag behind any other State.

THE "CRABBITES."

Human nature is the same the world over, but here it seems to be molded in more different and distinct types. Take for instance the new religion, now making a headway near Nashville. It was founded by William U. Crabb, recently, and they are known as the "Crabbites." "Bill," the founder, as he was known before he tired of farming and took up religion as a "profession"—is every inch a character out of the ordinary. If you would see these hills on which they try to raise things you would not blame "Bill" for going into religion, the next best bet to the sand bagging business. "Bill" founds his creed on a verse in the Bible, and about the only one he can recite—relative to the serpent's sting not being fatal. He holds his meetings in a field every Sunday afternoon after the ball game, and on account of the barb wire stretched around it, it is called "The Barb Wire Tabernacle." "Bill" invited them to bring unto him snakes—and there are many in the hills of the poisonous variety—and he proves his faith by letting the varmints crawl about on him. For several weeks he stood up, as did his religion, against the garter snake tests, but last Sunday a rattle snake was brought in a box, and its rattle proved the death rattle for the "Crabbites."

CHILDREN AND COON DOG CROPS.

The principal crops raised in Brown county are children and coon dogs, and the poorer the family, the more dogs and children they possess. After trudging over the "unautomobile" hills for several hours, where John Gartin and his machine would dare not try to go, one is astonished to find so many hills people living without any visible means of a livelihood. A good many are from the hills of Tennessee and Kentucky and they would wilt and die if they were obliged to live on level ground.

THE POOR HOUSE.

Just while I was thinking how poor they surely must be, I turned in the road and looming up on the hill—for it is a series of hills—was one of the best buildings seen on the trip. Naturally I inquired to learn who lived there, and was fairly taken off my feet when informed that it was the poor house. Poor house! The very name sounded like a huge joke in that environs. What manner of people lived in a poor house, if those seen along the way were able to battle with life on the outside. Six or seven inmates were found at the institution. They were highly interesting. And they all owned land. That was the reason they were there. And the funny thing about it was that the one that owned the most land had been there the longest. They were land poor. Could not raise enough to keep up taxes and expenses.

BROWN COUNTY ROADS.

What we call roads is an unknown thing in Brown county. The place where the horses are obliged to traverse is generally in a hollow between two hills where they have beaten a path. Most of the so-called roads are built in the bed of a creek, where one can drive if the water is not too high. The bed is of soap stone or shale. For genuine roughness they make the rocky roads to Dublin appear as smooth as a billiard table.

But the people here are a happy and contented lot, and after all that is all life is worth. They keep well posted on the doings of the outside world, and to a man, nearly every Republican in the county is for Jim Watson for Governor—he's after our own heart, they say.

JUDGE SPARKS WILL HEAR TWENTY CASES

Now Scheduled on the Shelby County Docket—Heaviest Criminal Docket in Years

Prosecutor Charles Hack, of Shelbyville, who is here today on the McFeeley case, contemplates taking his meals and bunking with Judge Sparks at the court house in Shelbyville the next term of court which begins Monday week. The felonious charges have become congested and the most formidable array of cases ever ready for trial are now in the hands of Mr. Hack. He has a book as big as a dictionary in which are depicted the acts committed by the twenty or more men under arrest.

FIRST ISSUE OF THE BUDGET OUT TODAY

For the Present School Term—Came Out With Beautiful Front Page

The first edition of the High School Budget for this term of school came out today with a beautiful cut and description of the new Graham school, the new home of the pupils in the future years.

The Budget, with Amos Baxter as business manager, Georgia B. Wyatt and Anna Gillespie as editors, with a quartette of able assistants, bids fair to eclipse anything heretofore attempted in the way of a bi-weekly, published by the students alone.

Ben Sparks and Francis Moor are looking after the circulation and the advertising, and the well filled pages show that they have not been sleeping.

The paper is ably edited and is far in advance to many country newspapers coming into our exchange. The paper is a literary gem and speaks well for all who are connected with it.

ANDERSON EXPECTS A HARD CONTEST

When They Meet the Rushville Foot Ball Team on the Gridiron Tomorrow

The opening of school came a revival of foot ball. The players of the team this season are assured yet, but for enthusiasm above any ever organized in the local high school.

nized in the local high school.

Tomorrow the boys go to Anderson, and they are anticipating a great victory for their opening game on the gridiron. Speaking of the Rushville team and the game tomorrow the Anderson Herald says in part:

Coach Hugh Sutherland, the big Wabash senior who is coaching the Anderson high school foot ball team this fall returned to Crawfordsville yesterday to remain until after Sunday. He will return later and take up the work. His being a student at Wabash requires part of his time there in the class room. Before leaving Sutherland expressed the belief that Anderson would take the game from Rushville high school here next Saturday afternoon at the fairground. His only regret is inability to be here to see his proteges perform under fire.

Rushville bears the name of being a fast foot ball high school. In the past it has sent its teams against Franklin college and DePauw University with credit to itself, and it is said that there are worthy successors of the Geraghty brothers of those days there. Anderson will not have a walk-away Saturday.

TUNNELING PROCESS USED IN DIGGING SEWER

New Methods Required on Third Street on Account of I. & C. Tracks

The sewer gang is going along rapidly on Third street east, considering the condition prevailing on account of the I. & C. tracks. A hole twenty feet long is dug and then a tunnel of about four feet is made under the ground and the tile are worked through a hole in the tunnel. This tunneling process is made in order to act as a brace. The regular braces can not be used on account of the I. & C. cars passing every hour.

John McFeeley, charged with the stealing of chickens, was tried today in the circuit court before a jury of twelve men and after the hearing of the evidence, and the argument of the attorneys, Gates Sexton, who appeared for the defendant, and Prosecutor Hack for the State, the jury gave McFeeley thirty days jail sentence.

A CHANGE FOR COUNTY FAIR

Suggestion That Exhibitors be Obligated to Leave Exhibits on the Grounds

MEETING SATURDAY OCT. 5

When County Fair Officials Will Close the Business of the Year

The Rush County Fair Association will hold their annual business meeting one week from next Saturday, (October 5) at the court house.

Financial report of the last fair, election of officers and other business will come before the meeting.

It has been suggested that the officers take up the matter of making the fair more of an all-week affair in the future. In the past few years our county fair—like nearly every other county fair in the State—is resolving into a one big day event. Other features and attractions are necessary to get the public to patronize the fair for at least three big days.

One thing, the exhibits are handled in a very lax manner as far as the patrons go. All exhibitors should be obliged to have everything in order on Tuesday morning and not allowed to remove an article until Saturday morning. Usually Friday, and even Thursday evening, marks the tearing down and removing of articles placed on exhibition, and this is an injustice to Friday patrons.

HOLDS RECORD FOR INDIANA MARES

Aileen Wilson's Record of 2:04 1-4 is Best Time Ever Made by a Hoosier Mare

Aileen Wilson, 2:04 1/4 is now the fastest mare ever bred in Indiana. The little Wilson mare has the record of starting in every meeting of the Grand circuit this year, and not once did she finish behind the money. This, too, in the face of the fact that she injured her knee in the Detroit fire before she started in a race this season. On only one event was she behind the money, but this does not hold against her, as she won the consolation purse, which was a part of the first stake.

Dick Wilson says she can beat 2:03 at this minute and he declares he will clinch the race record for mares next season.

The local managers have also secured a male quartette known as the Parland Newhall company which is a great company with a great record, having traveled through thirty-eight States during the season of 1905 and 1906, covering a season of thirty-five weeks and giving universal satisfaction. This is without question the most versatile four-people combination now before the American Lyceum public.

One of the numbers which deserves special mention, is Skovgaard, the Danish Violin Virtuoso, who first came to this country to accept the position of concert-master with the New York Symphony Orchestra under Damrosch. Skovgaard's violin was made by Antonius Stradivarius. Stradivarius who made the violin in 1713 in memory of his deceased son, retained it until his death, but never put strings on it. His sons, Francesco and Omobono, later sold the violin to Luigi Tarisio, a dealer, who sold it to a Spanish museum where it remained for generations. In 1897 the violin was rescued, unharmed, from the museum, which was destroyed by fire, and placed in the hands of a London dealer from whom, after tedious negotiations, Mr. Skovgaard purchased the instrument for $18,000. He is, therefore, the only person who has played on this wonderful violin.

The citizens of Rushville owe much to the committee who selected these artists for the lecture course, as it is as good as will be seen in Chicago and other large cities.

There is talk of several of Rushville's dairymen "quitting the business. They declare they cannot make any profits in the business. For years they "copped the cream" around here in a financial way, but the price of feed now eats into their profits.

Very truly your brother,
A. H. GRAHAM.
Earl Payne continues to improve.

EVERY NUMBER IS A GOOD ONE

Committee Has Secured Best Lecture Course Ever Given Here

EACH LECTURER AN ARTIST

Season Opens Evening October 7, With Frederick Warde in Shakespearian Recital

The committee on program have been fortunate in arranging a lecture course this season which eclipses anything heretofore attempted. There is an old adage that "a good beginning makes a bad ending," but it is not true in this case, for each number will be the best that can be secured throughout the season.

The season opens on October 7th in this city with the most pretentious list of talent ever brought to a city of this size. Frederick Warde, the eminent tragedian is the first on the program in a lecture recital of Shakespeare and his plays.

The purpose of Mr. Warde's recitals is to encourage and simplify the study of Shakespeare, to remove the mistaken impression of profundity and obscurity and illustrate the beauty of his poetry, the depth of his philosophy, the universality of his knowledge and his all-pervading Christianity. They are the results of a lifetime's devotion to the study of the subject and association with the master minds who have represented the marvellous creations of the poet upon the stage.

Frances B. Wending is another number which is deserving of a wide hearing. Mr. Wending is a lecturer who is an artist. His message is uplifting, helpful and abounds with the deepest sympathy for struggling humanity. He stands alone in his original, fascinating method and by his dramatic, oratorical power, moves his listeners as with the wand of an enchanter to smiles and tears, or to solemn, serious thought. He talks from brain and heart.

Elias Day is a number which will be appreciated. Mr. Day gives several of his character sketches and in a quiet and effective manner depicts homely scenes from real life, true to nature and full of pathos. He is a comedian in the best sense of the word an actor whose fun is always next to tears. His makeup work is excellent and will please all classes.

Mr. Day is accompanied by Mrs. Oran Truitt Day, who is of great assistance to him, and has in the last two seasons demonstrated her right to recognition as a reader of unusual charm. Working in harmony with Mr. Day to produce a well-balanced and artistic program, she is as quiet and natural in her share of the entertainment as he is in his.

The local managers have also secured a male quartette known as the Parland Newhall company which is a great company with a great record, having traveled through thirty-eight States during the season of 1905 and 1906, covering a season of thirty-five weeks and giving universal satisfaction. LAW CONSTITUTIONAL

Thus Says Attorney General Concerning New Rules for Teachers.

Indianapolis, Ind., September 27.—State Superintendent Cotton has received an opinion from Attorney General Bingham holding the minimum wage law for school teachers to be constitutional. The teachers were responsible for the enactment of the law last winter, but many of them are complaining now because it provides for higher qualifications for those who teach. Some of the southern Indiana teachers have taken the position that the law is not constitutional because it provides for an increase in salary and for higher qualifications. The law also provides that after 1908 all teachers must be graduates of a commissioned high school. This would disqualify many prospective teachers who attend non-commissioned schools. The attorney general's opinion is being sent to the school superintendents by Superintendent Cotton.

William E. Blakely, state factory inspector, has sounded a warning to mercantile companies and manufacturers of Indianapolis that violations of the child labor laws are being found and that the violations must stop or the violators will be brought into court. The inspector has found, through children who have come to his office for age certificates, that some of the Indianapolis merchants—and the largest houses in the city at that—have been employing children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years without demanding age certificates. Children have told the inspector that they have worked without age certificates and that no certificates were demanded. The manufacturers—for some manufacturers as well as merchants have been discovered violating the law—and the merchants say the children lie to them concerning their age, but it has been pointed out by the inspector that under the law age certificates from the inspector's office must be furnished. In several instances children have admitted that to escape school attendance and go to work, they had lied concerning their ages to their employers and said that they were over sixteen, so that they could secure employment without an age certificate.

Thousands of hogs were killed in Indiana by cholera and other diseases during the year ending March 1, 1907, according to statistics compiled by Miss Mary Stubbs, state statistician, who says that during the past year 217,194 hogs died of cholera and kindred diseases. A total of 53,972 sheep perished also from various diseases during the same period. Miss Stubbs' figures show that there was a total of 1,976,542 thoroughbred hogs in the state of various kinds on March 1, that were over three months old. A total of 4,341,652 head of hogs over three months old were sold during the year. On March 1 there was a total of 570,543 head of dairy cattle in the state and 432,019 head of beef cattle. A total of 432,664 head of beef cattle were sold during the year. The total number of sheep in the state March 1 was 626,994, while the number sold throughout the state during the year was 524,807 head.

The railroad commission is conducting a general inquiry into the matter of freight rates on gravel and other road building materials, with a view of relieving the embarrassment of many counties that can't afford to build new gravel roads under existing conditions. Officials of several counties declared that it will be impossible to build new roads under the present freight rates. Representatives of the Evansville & Terre Haute road said they have reduced the rates on gravel in hopes of encouraging the building of good roads. The representatives of several counties urged the commission to fix a state rate on gravel.

Senator Hemenway is meeting Republican leaders at his old headquarters at the Claypool hotel. His arrival here caused a gathering of prominent party men from throughout the state. Senator Hemenway did not make a public statement of any kind, but he let his friends know that he is favorable to the nomination of Congressman Watson for governor. Watson will be here tonight, and it is understood that some plans for his race will be perfected.

POLITICAL FACTOR

Federation of Labor Formally Enters the Field of Politics.

COMMITTEE ESTABLISHED

The Purpose of This New Body Is to Acquire Information Concerning Candidates For Public Office.

Several Political Celebrities of the State Were Criticized In Final Resolutions.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 27.—That the Indiana Federation of Labor intends becoming a most important factor in the politics of the commonwealth was definitely disclosed, as predicted, during the closing sessions of its convention. In winding up the convention the federation took occasion to criticize, censure and denounce several political celebrities of the state, as well as to establish a committee to delve in the political field for the purpose of advancing those candidatures that are friendly to labor and its cause.

A resolution denouncing Governor Hanly and Congressman James E. Watson was introduced by Theodore Perry of Indianapolis typographical union, and passed unanimously. The resolution contained a review of the appointment of William Blakely to the position of state factory inspector, and then proceeded to call it a political deal which Governor Hanly paid Congressman Watson, thus "prostituting the office," according to the resolution.

Perry, who is a strong supporter of the idea of the federation getting into politics, presented another resolution which was adopted unanimously. It calls for the appointment of a committee of ten, to be known as the political committee of the state federation, to keep awake on the political situation in the state, and to ascertain those candidates who are friendly and unfriendly toward labor. Information concerning candidates for public office will be welcomed by this committee, which expects to accomplish much in the elections. The members comprising the committee are: Theodore Perry, Indianapolis; D. M. Winters, Muncie; Harry W. Rogers, Richmond; W. E. Tripper, Peru; Thomas Critchfield, Cayuga; J. C. Mays, Vincennes; H. C. Hoeltje, Fort Wayne; M. M. Lollo, Terre Haute; George W. Goetz, South Bend, and Lee Jackson, Evansville. Vincennes was chosen as the meeting place for 1908.

The report of the legislative committee developed a wordy battle which did not end until after an hour had been spent in warm debate. Acting under instructions of last year's convention to submit a report as to what occurred of interest to organized labor at the last session of the general assembly, the committee presented its report, which contained a record of how the legislators voted on certain measures, particularly the child labor bill. A statement to the effect that the report did not assume to place any lawmakers on the black-list, was incorporated in the report. The committee's report was accepted.

CORONER'S QUEST

Searching Investigation Being Made Into Whitecapping Tragedy.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 27.—Coroner Harris has entered upon a searching inquiry into the causes of the tragedy which led to the death of Jesse Robinson, alleged whitecapper, who was shot at the door of the home of Thomas Jaddis, following a midnight call with two other men.

A score or more of well-known citizens were summoned from the Victor neighborhood, but thus far nothing has developed. The one effort of the coroner is to find the owners of the two slouch hats that were found in the yard. The hats are covered with stone dust, giving the impression that they belong to quarrymen. However, it is believed that most of the men in that vicinity know who the letters R. H. on one of the hats stand for. Mrs. Robinson was the most important witness. She testified that her husband left home early the night of the tragedy. She thought he was working at the stone quarry.

Attorney Robert Miller is retained by Jaddis to look after his interests. It is impossible to get anyone in the vicinity of the tragedy to talk. Evidently word has been passed along the line that nothing is to be said. Jaddis made no effort to run away, and was arrested, and together with his girl wife, lodged in jail here. In the neighborhood all is excitement and many of the people of that section are thoroughly frightened and refuse to talk at all to strangers. It seems almost certain that the whitecappers all came from the little Victor town, which is nervously awaiting the first move of the officers. It is rumored here that two men whose names have been mentioned in the affair have already left the country.

He Shot on Sight.

Whiting, Ind., Sept. 27.—With a loaded revolver in hand, Anton Sheher entered his dwelling here and, finding Steven Kovac there with Mrs. Sheher, fired two shots, killing the man he says had wrecked his home. Sheher took his two-year-old daughter and escaped.

GOING SOME

Indiana Company's Annual Profits Double the Total Investment.

New York, Sept. 27.—The Indiana Pipe Line company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil, made a profit of $4,091,022 in 1903 on a total investment of $2,228,758, according to the company's figures produced by George Chesbro, controller of the National Pipe Line company, who appeared as a witness in the federal suit against the Indiana Pipe Line company. The company was a common carrier and engaged only in the transportation of oil. From balance sheets of the company Frank B. Kellogg, conducting the government's case, sought to show that the Indiana company was making excessive profits and that it maintained a high schedule of tariffs to prevent shipments of oil by independent oil producers. Mr. Chesbro testified that the Indiana company transported practically only the oil of the Standard company. The counsel for the government alleged that it will be shown that the profits made by these pipe line companies have, in some cases, been twenty times the actual cost of operation.

Calvin N. Payne, who, with H. C. Folger, Jr., owns the Corsicana Refining company of Texas, under examination, stated that tanks and receiving stations at the end of the pipe line of the New York Transit company, now called the National Transit company of New Jersey, and at the terminals of the pipe lines of the National Transit company at Centre Bridge, Pa., and Fond Grove, Pa., were built the year the Hepburn law went into effect. Mr. Payne was stating that he supposed there was some legal reason for building these receiving stations on the state lines of New York and New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and Pennsylvania and Maryland, when John G. Milburn, chief of the defendant's counsel, interposed and said he gave the advice. Mr. Milburn, cross-examining the witness, developed the testimony that the pipe lines connecting the terminals at Unionville, Centre Bridge and Fond Grove with tidewater at New York and Baltimore were the private lines of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and were not public carriers. Mr. Payne said that the National and New York Transit companies were prepared to accept business over the lines and to deliver at their receiving stations.

Standard on the Defensive.

New York, Sept. 27.—John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil company, has issued a general notice to the effect that false and injurious statements were being scattered broadcast, as from a "representative of the Standard Oil company," and warning the public that no credit should be given to any statement purporting to emanate from the Standard Oil company, unless signed by an executive official of the company or its designated attorney.

Third Street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I was afflicted with a steady dull aching in the region of my kidneys and my back was so very weak that I was unable to lift anything. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills being a good remedy for backache and kidney difficulty and knowing from the nature of the kidney secretions that my kidneys were not normal, I went to F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store and got them. After using several doses of this remedy, the urinary trouble was banished, and my head felt much better and lameness in my back was removed. Bishop of London Tells Wall Street to Account For Stewardship.

THE CURE FOR BOODLING

Notable Noonday Sermon In Historic Old Trinity Listened to by Notable Financiers.

J. P. Morgan Had to Stand Up While Many Were Unable to Gain Admission.

New York, Sept. 27.—From the pulpit of historic Trinity church, in the heart of the country's great financial district, Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, bishop of London, at noon delivered the message: "Life is a stewardship, not an ownership."

RIGHT REV. ARTHUR F. W. INGRAM, BISHOP OF LONDON.

A greater throng perhaps never sought admission to the edifice, and when all who could be accommodated were within, hundreds lingered outside to catch a glimpse of the noted divine.

Notable laymen and men prominent in Wall street had to stand on the edge of the crowd. J. P. Morgan stood at the end of an aisle throughout the opening services. Then a younger man gave his seat. It was surely not such an audience as the bishop was accustomed to during the nine years of his settlement work in the East End of London, as the head of the Oxford House.

He said: "I know not to whom I am preaching. I shall be as frank here as I am in London. No man who is really a Christian would soil his Christian hands with one dollar the possession of which he could not justify in the sight of Heaven."

His text was from the second verse of the 16th chapter of the gospel according to St. Luke: "Render the account of thy stewardship; for thou canst be no longer steward."

"The one thing," he said, "the one sentence, which above all others I would say to you, a sentence as yet unlearned in London and New York and which, if adopted, would cleanse the life on both sides of the Atlantic is—Life is a stewardship, and not an ownership."

"All the evils in the world are due to the neglect of the Christian principle that we are here only as custodians of what we have, be it wealth or anything else, founded upon the fact that Christ died to redeem man and again place him in fair standing. If city officials and government servants would live up to these two thoughts, there would be no boodling, no miscarriage of justice and no broken hearts."

The bishop left for Washington, where he will call upon the president.

New York, Sept. 27.—Stuyvesant Fish has made public a reply to the circular sent out on Tuesday last by President Harahan of the Illinois Central, in which he declares that the charges made by Mr. Harahan were not new, but had been published long ago and "each met by me and disposed of."

Amusements

Ralph Stuart in "Strongheart," at the Auditorium Monday, Sept. 30.

The Vaudet will show tonight an excellent program entitled a "Daring Maid," comic, and "In Seville" a panorama view of the principal streets and places in the historic city of Spain, also showing the velas of the parade on Holy Week. Mr. Wilson will sing the beautiful illustrated song, "She Sleeps by the Silvery Rio Grande."

The Grand theatre offers one of the best programs of the season tonight and tomorrow night, entitled "Cast Up by the Sea," showing the home of a member of the life saving crew, where a baby dies, almost distracting the mother, who is at last appeased by another child found on a raft.

"The Fortune," is the real feature of the bill and is a decided innovation in moving pictures. The fortunes are depicted on the curtain enabling the audience to read the fortune told to the young lady by the old fortune teller, showing some decided novelty work in motion pictures. Miss Brown will sing "Just Set a Light," a beautiful illustrated song.

Rushville playgoers will have an opportunity on next Monday night to attend a high class attraction when "Strongheart," with Robert Stuart in the lead shows at the Auditorium in Connerville.

Mr. Stuart has always been a serious and studious worker in the drama, and his ambition has been and is, to produce only American plays.

In "Strongheart," the author, William C. DeMille, has chosen as a background, Columbia University of New York City. His personages are the types found in every college today, the dominant figure being "Strongheart," son of an Indian chief, a graduate of Carlisle, an "A. P. G." at Columbia. The Indian's prowess on the football field, his simple heartedness and general winning personality, make him a universal favorite with his classmates, athletically and socially. They welcome him to their homes and he is a social equal.

But he has the misfortune to fall in love with a white girl and then is brought out the injustice of the Caucasian to ward any brother human being with a touch of color. The race conflict is interestingly handled, but the deep thought of it isn't sufficiently prevalent to injure the youthful comedy of the play. Among the many interesting dramatic episodes, the great football game has always caught the public fancy. Training quarters of Columbia's eleven during the intermission between the first and second halves of a big game are shown. This forms an important part in the development of the story. It is a distinct and refreshing novelty.

Lusitania's Good Passage.

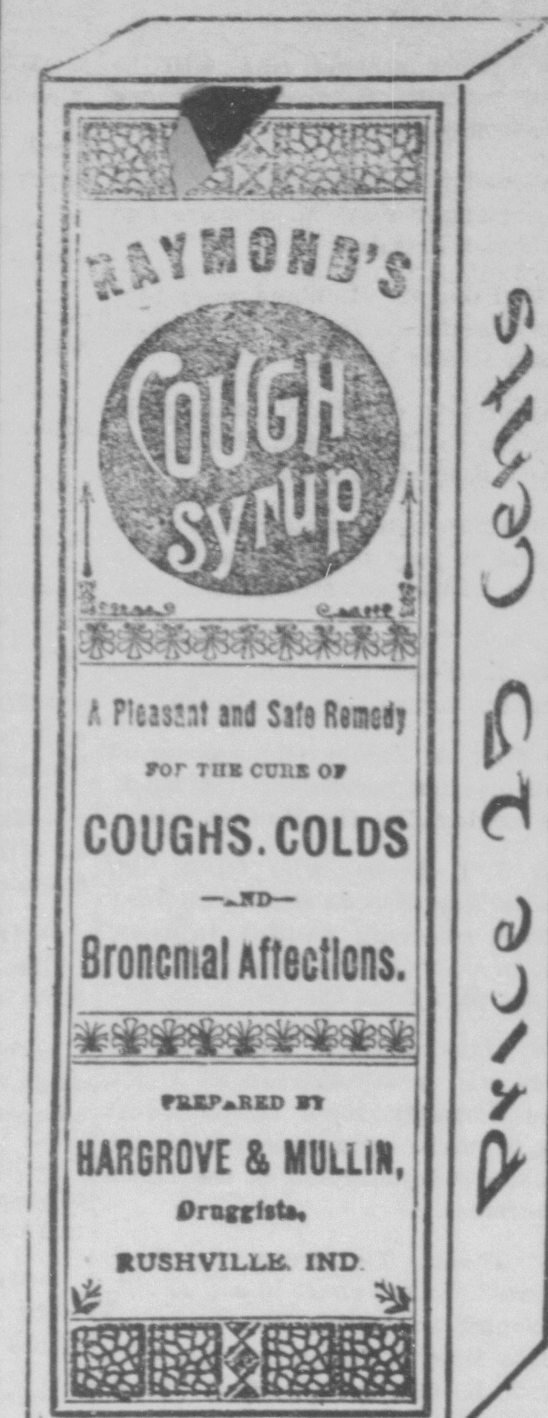

Queenstown, Sept. 27.—The steamer Lusitania has arrived here, having made the eastward passage across the Atlantic in five days, four hours and nineteen minutes, an average of 22 1/2 knots. The previous record was made by the steamer Lucania, which, on Sept. 14, 1894, crossed from New York to Queenstown in five days, eight hours, thirty-eight minutes, with an average hourly speed of 21.84 knots.

He Has the Proxies.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—President J. T. Harahan of the Illinois Central railroad, last night confirmed a statement to the effect that he and Vice President A. G. Hackstaff already have proxies for more than a majority of the entire outstanding issue of stock.

Maple City Self Washing Soap

A few thin snowy flakes dropped into the boiler from a cake of this wonder-working Soap, will quickly make a heap of dirty clothes look like a snowdrift. It preserves textures instead of "eating" and corroding them as strong soaps do. It works like magic in hot or cold water, and is the purest, finest Soap in existence for "all-round" housework. This large, substantial white cake is the most economical because it lasts as long as two of other kinds. 5 cents at all grocers.

GOOD MUSIC.

GOOD ORDER.

-right now is your chance to get a Buck's stove or range

--we will send to your home on approval any Buck's heater, range or cook stove shown on our sample floor.

--this astonishing offer is made because of our great faith in these exceptional stoves.

--if the stove does not in every way fulfill the promises made for it we will cheerfully remove it and refund any money that may have been paid on it.

--Buck's hot blast--the great fuel saver

—this stove produces more heat for less money than any other stove in the world.

—by means of air ducts, in an encircling ring, heated oxygen is admitted to the upper surface of the burning coal, thus allowing all gases to be consumed.

—you will save at least one-third of your fuel expenditures if you use a Buck's hot-blast heater.

—this is just one of the many very good reasons why you should own one.

--double heater--furnace as well as stove

—you can heat an "upstairs" room in addition to the one in which the stove stands, with a Buck's hot-blast heater.

—this double heater attachment takes the cold air from the floor, heats it hot, and sends it either out into the room, or—if a pipe is attached—to a room above.

—this advantage alone should make the stove invaluable to you.

—there are many other advantages which this stove possesses over the ordinary stove.

EAT WHAT YOU WANT

Science Has Now Found the True Way to cure Indigestion

A few years ago, when a sufferer from indigestion went to a stomach specialist, the result was a rigid diet list that almost meant starvation.

But the first thing to do in the case of indigestion or stomach weakness is to strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines, so that they will care for the food that is eaten. In no other way can this be done as well as by taking a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal. This restores strength to the stomach muscles and stimulates the pouring out of gastric juices, so that the food is digested readily and its nourishment retained in the system to build up energy and vitality.

Do not think the sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, spots before the eyes, sleeplessness and many other symptoms that are the direct result of indigestion, will go away of themselves. The stomach must be built and strengthened by Mi-o-na before you can be well and strong, free from suffering and distress.

The guarantee that Johnson Store gives with every 50-cent Mi-o-na, to refund the money remedy cures, shows their faith in the treatment.
